DEATH: Woodman of the World, Source, Annetta Cunha Boulden, tombstone, Greenmount Cem

OBITUARY: Durango Herald 26 Jun 1920, Funeral Services for Frank Cunha Monday A.M.at 10. "Monday morning at 10 o'clock Rev.L.K.Wells of the Presbyterian church will conduct services at the Cunha home in memory of the late Frank Cunha, the pioneer barber, who died yesterday at noon, following an operation for relief from cancer of the stomach. Interment will be made at Greenmount under the direction of Mortician Hood. The late Mr.Cunha, who opened the first barber shop in this city, some forty years ago, was a native of Portugal, but a staunch and ideal citizen of his adopted country. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs.Will Galbreath of Del Norte and Mrs.Earl Faris of Mancos, besides a number of grandchildren. Mr.and Mrs.Faris are in the city comforting the stricken wife and mother, and Mr.and Mrs.Galbreath will arrive this evening to attend the ceremonies. Two of their children, a son and a married daughter, also are here for the services. Out of respect for the late decedent the Strater hotel barber shop, owned by the deceased, has remained closed since his death. The late Mr.Cunha enjoyed perhaps a larger acquaintance with the traveling men making the basin than any other individual, for for more than forty years he had been at the same stand."

BIOGRAPHY and RESEARCH NOTES from Annetta Cunha Boulden (some of this has been proved incorrect):

His father was Manuel De Cunha Pacheco and he owned land on the island of Graciosa, Azores. According to my father, he was sort of a slave driver. All his sons left home. My father was the youngest. The older boys, after coming to America, had my father run away (he would have been about 17). They paid his way in the steerage to cross the Atlantic. He was supposed to have landed on the coast of New Hampshire (unlikely). He could not speak English, but as far as I know he made his way to Durango, Colorado where his brothers Antonio and Frank were running 4 or 5 barber shops. (unlikely, Frank did not arrive in CO until after 1880) When he was 20 or so, he suffered callouses and corns on his feet and toes from standing so long and he had to quit. Later in his life, he thought as a result of this, he had to have 2 toes amputated because they looked like they might become cancerous.

He went into the mountains around Delta and Telluride, CO. He saved his money and followed the railroad into Green River, UT. He was running a tent saloon when he met my mother. He gave it up because she did not approve. Green River had the terminal at that time. Most of the time, he worked in the Round House, putting his wages into stock cattle. He did this until he went to San Raphael River to take up an abandoned spread. He lived there for eight years with his wife and child (me). His brother, Frank, lived and died in Durango, CO. Antonio left and went to Nevada and was interested in mining. I wrote to him as a young girl for some time. But, after my mother died when I was seventeen, I quit writing, of which I have always regretted. He seemed so intelligent and kind, and I feel he could have helped me so much in a genealogical way. I think he was my father's favorite brother. It has been said that his older brother Manuel went to Brazil. John (Juan) went to Massachusetts. Only one of his sisters ever came to America. She was Candida. She was married to Domingo Mendonga in the Azores. They settled in Santa Clara, CA. They had two sons named Joseph and Frank. I have written to both of them, but haven't been able to get much information from them. Frank Cunha married Fannie Estelle Frost. They had three children, Louise, Elizabeth, and Frank.
